

This market will resolve to "Yes" if any of the following conditions are met by December 31, 2025, 11:59 PM ET:

- Evidence Trump went to Epstein's Island made public
- Trump out as President
- Trump impeached
- Any Trump cabinet member out

Otherwise, this market will resolve to "No".

1. Evidence Trump went to Epstein's Island made public

This market will resolve to "Yes" if evidence is made public confirming that Donald Trump has visited Little Saint James during this market's above-specified time frame.

This includes but is not limited to flight logs, photographs, videos, court records, or sworn testimony that clearly place Trump on the island.

The resolution source for this market will be a consensus of credible reporting.

2. Trump out as President

This market will resolve to "Yes" if Donald Trump resigns or is removed as President or otherwise ceases to be the President of the United States for any period of time during this market's above-specified time frame.

An announcement of Donald Trump's resignation/removal before this market's end date will immediately resolve this market to "Yes", regardless of when the announced resignation/removal goes into effect.

Only permanent removal from office will qualify. Temporary removal (e.g. temporary invocation of the 25th Amendment under Section 3 or a Section 4 invocation not sustained by both Houses of Congress) or impeachment without removal will not count.

A sustained invocation of the Twenty-Fifth Amendment, Section 4 (i.e., if both Houses of Congress, by two-thirds vote, uphold the Vice President and Cabinet's determination of presidential inability) will qualify for a "Yes" resolution.

The resolution source for this market will be a consensus of credible reporting.

3. Trump impeached

This market will resolve to "Yes" if the US House of Representatives by simple majority vote to approve or pass one or more articles of impeachment of President Donald Trump, during this market's above-specified time frame.

Neither trial nor conviction by the US Senate, nor removal from office, is necessary to resolve this market to "Yes".

The primary resolution source for this market will be information from the federal government of the United States, however a consensus of credible reporting will be used.

4. Any Trump cabinet member out

This market will resolve to "Yes" if at least one cabinet-level Donald Trump appointee from his second term leaves their position during this market's above-specified time frame.

Voluntary resignations, removals, retirements, or departures for any reason will count.

Announcements alone will not qualify toward this market's resolution. An individual must actually have left their cabinet-level position.

Temporary or acting officials will not count toward this market's resolution.

The primary resolution source for this market will be official information from the US government, however a consensus of credible reporting will also be used.
